Project -

GymBuddy Web App (MERN Stack: MongoDB, Express, React, Node.js)

- Developed a dynamic web application for gym-goers and fitness enthusiasts using the MERN stack (MongoDB, Express, React, Node.js), providing a personalized meal delivery service focused on high-protein, low-carb dietary needs.
- Leveraged MongoDB for secure, scalable storage of user profiles, order history, and dietary preferences. Express and Node.js powered backend services, enabling secure user authentication, order management, and real-time updates, ensuring a smooth and efficient user experience.
- Designed a responsive and interactive front-end with React, allowing users to customize their meals, track nutritional intake, and receive personalized meal reminders via push notifications, helping users stay on track with their fitness and nutrition goals.
- Integrated secure cloud storage to synchronize user data across multiple devices in real time, ensuring data privacy, consistency, and a seamless cross-device experience.
